

Introduced with care. Connected by consent.

RTR never auto-matches. A trained facilitator reviews every recommendation, and both people must say yes before any contact opens.

Reviewed by a person

Every recommendation passes through a facilitator who knows the community before an introduction is ever made.

Mutual consent, always

Both people must agree before contact opens. Either person can decline — quietly, and without explanation.

Privacy until yes

Profiles show initials, not photos, by design. Photos are exchanged in conversation, after both people agree to connect.

“Matching is mediated. People are introduced by people.”

Technology suggests; human judgment and mutual consent decide.
